

ABSTRACT

A method of enabling access to a data structure is provided. The method includes designating e-mail addresses of users with respective sections of the data structure. The method also includes enabling access to 5 the respective sections to users corresponding to the designated e-mail addresses.